Wah Lee's August Revenue Reaches NT$7.99 Billion, Setting a New Record for the Same Period

September 8, 2026 — Wah Lee Industrial Corp. (3010.TT), a leading supplier of high-tech materials and equipment, benefited from steady demand growth across its semiconductor and PCB business segments. The Company's unaudited consolidated revenue for August 2026 reached NT$7.99 billion, representing a 23.6% year-over-year increase and marking a record high for August. Consolidated revenue for the first eight months of 2026 totaled NT$62.21 billion, up 20.1% year over year.

With demand in the semiconductor and PCB markets remaining robust and customers continuing to expand production capacity, shipments across Wah Lee's major product lines continued to grow. In addition, increases in the prices of certain raw materials further contributed to revenue growth. The market expects Wah Lee to maintain a steady growth trajectory in its overall operating scale.
